REPUBLIC BUILDING,
SPRINGFIELD, OHIO.

Telephone No. 250.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, MARCH 9, 1887.

Minister Pendleton has sailed for Berlin.

Who shall decide when democratic doctors disagree?

The president sent a message of condolence to Mrs. Beecher.

Queen Victoria is growing gay and more sociable as she grows older.

Living and Ellen Terry called on Mrs. Beecher.

Dr. Nebe was allowed to see the body of his wife, at Chicago.

The last liquor stop it before it is prohibited.

William R. Travers, the Wall Street magnate, and the Charles Lamb of America—will stammer—dying in Bermuda.

The Hon. B. W. Arnold will be re-nominated and re-elected as a member of the house of representatives from Greene county.

Hon. Benjamin Butterworth says that the defeat of the fortification bill will result in bringing about reciprocity with Canada.

Carter Harrison says the republicans will carry Chicago at the next election. Carter is getting out of the way of the coming cyclone. He is not a candidate.

March's Wife Ate has arrived and is a very good number for a "grown person" to read through, aloud, to his children. One doing this, will brighten up and humanize his whole household.

We are not troubled at the announcement that a grand nephew of the great Horace Greeley is a barber and a fiddler. What we want to know is whether he is a good barber and a good fiddler?

We are pleased to hear from the Youngstown Telegram that "Southern maidens" and "Illinois widows" are "things" but "things of beauty and joy." Exactly. The Telegram man's head is yet safe.

The veteran politician, Mr. Ben Nesbit, of Xenia, is a senatorial candidate in the Greene county district. He is very familiar with public affairs and would represent the people creditably if he were elected.

We have received from Wilber Colvin, esp., the prohibition leader, an elaborate article, giving his points in favor of the policy court, in full. The article is quite long, but it will appear in tomorrow's REPUBLIC, all the same. We propose that both sides of this matter shall have a fair hearing.

The terrible fact has at last come out that Trotter, appointed by the president as commissioner for settlement of debts for the District of Columbia, and confirmed by the senate, is a republican as well as an Ohio man. It is reported (but not proved) that Trotter voted for Cleveland, but if he did there are thousands who did that same in 1884 who will vote for John Sherman in 1888.

The London Daily News says of Henry Ward Beecher:

He leaves no system either of theology or church government. His influence, except as a personal recollection, ends with his life. He was for Americans the great exponent of his time. He was a great preacher, and nothing but a preacher.

Mr. Beecher was certainly a great orator, on general principles—really more of an orator than a preacher.

The question now before the American people is not whether we shall declare war against England one day and scowp in Canada the next, but whether we shall allow Newfoundland to extinguish and obliterate the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland because the British government has disavowed the bait bill.

The Newfoundlanders are tearing about dreadfully and howling and frothing as if they had the hydrophobia. Our sympathies are with the mother country.

The following from the Toledo Commercial, is from the pen of Gen. James M. Conley, and ought to draw a blister on Boynton's brazen cheek:

Boynton chokes and keeps up a bush-wacking against Gen. Keifer, a soldier and a public servant, whose neighbors know to have been most maliciously persecuted, and a gentleman whom the plain people of Ohio believe in and have honored and will honor again yet more decidedly if the bushwacking Boynton only keeps him long enough, in and out of season, with and without reason.

Boynton is not hurting Keifer; he is simply booming himself.

Mr. Whitelaw Reid, of the New York Tribune, has completed his new house near Cedarville, and is now on the ground looking it over, in detail. The Xenia Gazette gives about a column's space to its description of the structure. It says:

The building is of the cottage pattern, of two stories, and has a frontage of sixty-four feet toward the southeast, extending back thirty-three feet. The first story is weather-boarded with novelty clapboards, the second story and roof being covered with tile, and all interlarded with terra cotta bricks and siding paper. The cottage comprises a parlor, a dining room, with several porticoes and balconies.

The following paragraph describes the apartment prepared for occupation by Mr. Reid's venerable and honored mother:

On the west side of the old stands a part of the remains of the old Reid homestead which has been renovated and converted into a library and bed room for the aged Mother Reid. The bed room contains a bath room and dressing room, and connected with these is a small bed room, for an attendant who always sleeps within call of Mother Reid. The library, two bed rooms and dressing room are all in black walnut finish, and the old maples.

The closing paragraphs of the Gazette's description are as follows:

The entire building is heated by a hot air furnace and each room is also furnished with a grate, the style of which is entirely new in these parts, and were sent from the east by the owner. The grates are on rollers and can be removed at will.

The cottagers make an elevation and from the different porticoes and balconies can be enjoyed an extensive view of the surrounding country.

The devoted son has spared neither pains nor money to make the old homestead a palace of comfort for his mother.

The Mansfield News has written out of ex-Governor George W. Goldens, an Ohio democrat of prominence, the admission that Cleveland cannot be renominated. What he thinks about the republican situation will be seen in the following report of the News: "I have interviewed Mr. Goldens, and he has given me an opportunity to study the feeling in the republican party. What do you think of the presidential race?"

"Yes, I have been in a situation to study it carefully, and I may say that I believe Senator Sherman will be the republican candidate in 1888. As a candidate he has strengthened himself wonderfully in the past two years. The party is growing to look upon him as a safe man. Blaine was weak, and I believe that will be the ticket in 1888."

"Does the talk for General Hawley mean anything?"

"General Hawley is a very able man, a true-tried man and a man who has the confidence of his party, but I think the ticket for Senator Allison means more. He is a western man, you know. General Hawley is an available man for vice-presidential, the strongest ticket for the republican party, in my estimation, is Sherman and Hawley, and I believe that will be the ticket in 1888."

"Governor Foraker is spoken of for the vice-presidency?"

"Yes, but he cannot afford to antagonize Senator Sherman in making a campaign for a second place. He will certainly not be a candidate."

"Another thing, judge, concerning which you say has been a matter of speculation is the talk of your candidacy for governor?"

"I can talk very freely on that point, I am not a candidate and do not want to be."

If Springfield had failed to congratulate Dayton on the appropriation made for a government building to be erected in the city it has not been because Springfield was not heartily and universally glad at her neighbor's bit of good fortune. Springfield has been very busy and some preparation attended to, however, did appear in the REPUBLIC, last week. By the way, we received our appropriation about two years since, we believe, but the gravel of the site has not been disturbed. Our appropriation is all right, but our government building hasn't begun to materialize. Our Dayton friends should take warning that it is one thing to pass an appropriation bill and quite another to get ponderous old Uncle Sam down to business.

A young man took $2,900 from his employer, at Cohoes, N. Y., and went west, made $50,000 and returned and settled with the old gentleman in full. Now he stands high at Cohoes; but if he hadn't made the $50,000 he wouldn't have been anybody. He is still a thief, but a thief who repents and pays back the money is vastly better than a thief who doesn't. A certain thief, with Christ, to paradise, from Calvary, because he was penitent.

Hon. R. P. Flower, the millionaire democratic politician, of New York, who is an expert on great all kinds, declares that cotton seed oil is better than butter. What we have no doubt that it is for him. That he may be equal to land for cooking purposes, and more wholesome, is not at all unlikely. It is a vegetable product, and is certainly clean and sweet.

Trotter, President Cleveland's recorder of deeds, in the District of Columbia, was not even a mugwump, but a square-cut republican, who voted for Blaine. When we can catch our breath, one will try to express our feelings.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

STARRING.

Entered on a lonely night:
A cool companion with me went;
Some faint behind, some forward went;
But all on one high purpose bent;
To love, to nature, to feeling true;
In beauty and the shrine of art;
To consecrate our youths youth
To some outside the common heart.

I turned aside and looked back;
To think a rose, to love a field;
To miss, while listening to the song
Of jewels through lady's curls;
To be, as thoughts that thought to tame
Or question from the thoughtless crowd;
To feel for each that could not claim
The world's applause, coarse and fond.

But still, though I had my shelf
In folds my comrades have not known,
Though art is long and life is brief,
To be, as thoughts that thought to tame
Or question from the thoughtless crowd;
To feel for each that could not claim
The world's applause, coarse and fond.

I would not lose the nature sweet;
Nor scorn the toil of earlier years;
Should I climb once more the rugged steep
Though towering height on height appears
—Crane's "Ariel and Caliban"

How He Lost His Voice.

A pale-faced man with long, red hair and blue eyes set far back in a freckled face stood on the corner of Dearborn and LaSalle streets.

"Sick," asked a man who stopped to look into the pale face of the red-headed man.

"Not exactly," was the hoarse, drawing reply.

"Caught cold, I suppose?"

"No, never had a cold."

"Then, what's the matter with you, then?"

"Oh, I want to jump into the lake and die. I am the most miserable creature out of the hospital. Money, clothes, shoes, food, everything I am, the ragged end of humanity—the discard of all creation."

"Been 'fucking the tiger'?"

"Far worse, my friend. There was a time when I could seize the locks of the beast and pull out as many hairs as the best of them. But that day is gone. I am the spirit of the third day from the dead."

"Tray, what do you mean?"

"Ah, sir, I am a pharynx in 'Theodore' at the Grand opera house. Haven't I been singing for you ever since I came to the first act when Lillian Olcott, as the circus girl, came to my aid in the vaults of the amphitheatre?
